

SOGANG UNIVERSITY, GLOBAL PATHWAY PROGRAM

transfer@slu.edu

Sogang University, founded in 1960 and located in Seoul, South Korea, is one of the nation's top private institutions of higher learning. Established by the Society of Jesus, Sogang University offers a wide range of undergraduate and graduate programs in fields such as business, humanities, social sciences, engineering, and the natural sciences.

Sogang is known for its rigorous academic standards, innovative teaching methods and focus on fostering a global perspective in its students. The university has consistently ranked among the top universities in South Korea and is recognized for its diverse, vibrant campus community, which attracts students from all over the world. Sogang's commitment to research, global engagement and character development aligns with its Jesuit values, making it an excellent choice for students seeking both personal growth and academic achievement.

The Sogang Global Pathway Program (GPP) is designed to support international students who wish to study at Saint Louis University but may need additional preparation in areas like language proficiency, academic skills and cultural adaptation. Through the Global Pathway Program, students can build a solid academic foundation in a supportive environment before they begin their full degree programs at SLU. The GPP also provides an immersive cultural experience, allowing students to integrate into American society while developing cross-cultural competencies that are essential for succeeding in a globalized world. By bridging the gap between international students' needs and the rigorous standards of SLU, the GPP prepares students for a successful academic journey and future career opportunities.
