

DEPARTMENT OF AFRICAN AMERICAN STUDIES

The Department of African American Studies at Saint Louis University carries on a tradition of scholarly engagement that began in the early 20th century. The discipline of African American studies comprises critical, systematic engagement with historical, cultural, political and social experiences of people of African descent in the United States.

While our work at SLU centers on U.S.-based experiences, we are equally concerned with the global presence of African descendants. African American experiences are, therefore, viewed within an expansive diasporic context. Importantly, this work requires interrogation of the racial, ethnic, gender and class dynamics that enrich African diasporic experience and scholarship.

Our students, staff and faculty come from a range of backgrounds, experiences and fields of study. Collectively, our mission is to combine rigorous study, creativity, and research in the production and exchange of knowledge concerning Africa and its Diaspora.

We aim to foster a community of thinkers, scholars, activists and artists whose work enriches understanding of how African Americans and other African Diasporic communities have mutually shaped the social worlds they inhabit.

Programs

- African American Studies, B.A. (<https://catalog.slu.edu/colleges-schools/arts-sciences/african-american-studies/african-american-studies-ba/>)
- African American Studies, Minor (<https://catalog.slu.edu/colleges-schools/arts-sciences/african-american-studies/african-american-studies-minor/>)

Faculty Leadership

Christopher Tinson, Ph.D.
— Department chair

Faculty

Olubukola Gbadegesin, Ph.D.
Katrina T. Moore, Ph.D.
Clarise Thomas, Ph.D.
Christopher Tinson, Ph.D.