

ENGLISH, PH.D.

Saint Louis University's Ph.D. in English provides students with advanced scholarly training in a variety of literary fields and in the study of rhetoric and composition. Students in our program receive training in pedagogy, research, writing and theory. The Ph.D. prepares SLU students for careers in higher education as well as in nonacademic fields, including publishing, editing and secondary education.

Curriculum Overview

The Ph.D. in English requires 24 credits of coursework beyond the M.A. Students must demonstrate proficiency in at least one language other than English. After completing coursework, Ph.D. students prepare for a series of written and oral examinations based on a list of texts in their chosen field of concentration. Students then write and defend a dissertation prospectus, write a dissertation and present the dissertation in a public defense.

Fieldwork and Research Opportunities

Saint Louis University's English department is affiliated with the Walter J. Ong Center for Digital Humanities. In addition to participating in various writing programs, including University Writing Services, the English faculty and graduate students participate in departmental research colloquia and reading groups. SLU also hosts the journal African American Review.

Careers

Recent graduates with a Ph.D. in English from SLU have accepted tenure-track faculty positions at Creighton University, University of Central Florida, University of Detroit-Mercy, Missouri University of Science and Technology (Rolla), Truman State University, University of North Texas, Dallas, and University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill.

Ph.D. graduates who pursued nonacademic paths have accepted positions such as document analyst at the National Geospatial-Intelligence Agency, corporate training manager at Enterprise Holdings and the director of research communication at Washington University's School of Medicine.

Admission Requirements

Most admitted students meet the following criteria:

- An M.A. in English or a related field
- High levels of academic distinction at well-regarded colleges and universities with rigorous B.A./M.A. programs.
- High GPA (3.7 and above in English).
- Identified fields/areas of intended study, possible thesis/dissertation topics, and specific faculty in the department with whom students might wish to work.
- A professional goal statement that aligns well with the curricula the department offers. The statement should be no more than 750 words and should lay out professional and intellectual goals and the interest in graduate studies in English. While plans may change, this statement will help the department assess the grasp of the field and the ability to describe ideas coherently and compellingly. The statement should address:

- The specific field of English studies of interest to students
- How students would like to contribute to existing research and criticism in an area of interest
- The critical and scholarly approaches to literature students have found most productive
- The faculty members with whom students would prefer to work with.
- Sufficient TOEFL score (for international students).

Transferring into the Doctoral Program

Applications by SLU M.A. students seeking to transfer into the doctoral program are made by separate petition at the end of the fall semester of the master's candidate's second year, following a protocol described in the English Department Graduate Handbook (<https://www.slu.edu/arts-and-sciences/english/-pdf/englishgraduatehandbook.pdf>).

Application Requirements

- Application form
- Transcript(s)
- Three letters of recommendation assessing potential in graduate studies
- Résumé
- Writing sample (10 pages demonstrating competence in analyzing literary texts; this can be an excerpt taken from a longer piece)
- Professional goal statement

Requirements for International Students

All Saint Louis University admission policies and requirements for domestic students apply to international students. International students applying to SLU must also meet the following additional requirements:

- Demonstrate English language proficiency (<https://catalog.slu.edu/academic-policies/office-admission/undergraduate/english-language-proficiency/>)
- Academic records must include an English translation. Unofficial copies may be accepted in some cases for initial admission review, however official copies must be received prior to enrollment. Course-by-course transcript evaluations are accepted and are required in some cases.

Students must submit financial documents to be issued an I-20 for their F-1 visa application. Proof of financial support must include:

- A letter of financial support from the person(s) or sponsoring agency funding the student's time at Saint Louis University
- A letter from the sponsor's bank verifying that the funds are available and will be so for the duration of the student's study at the University

Application Deadline

Completed applications are due by Jan. 16. Students cannot begin the program in the spring semester or a summer session. 1818 instructors seeking a graduate degree should consult with the director of graduate studies in English.

Please do not forward any application materials directly to the Department of English. All application materials must be submitted through the Office of Graduate Admission.

For application forms and more information, contact the Office of Graduate Admission (<https://www.slu.edu/admission/graduate/>).

Review Process

The department's graduate committee members examine applicants' materials and make admission and funding recommendations.

Learning Outcomes

1. Graduates will be able to demonstrate a broad knowledge of literary histories, aesthetics, cultures and emerging areas of inquiry, including an awareness of cultural diversity within literary traditions.
2. Graduates will be able to demonstrate proficiency in formulating written and spoken arguments situated within a historical or methodological field of study, as defined in the sections of the department's graduate handbook covering Ph.D. exams.
3. Graduates will be able to demonstrate the ability to write and present papers or their equivalent within professional contexts.
4. Graduates will be able to demonstrate the ability to conceptualize, develop and bring to successful completion an original, sustained, and coherent independent research project (e.g., the dissertation) that contributes to one's field of specialization.
5. Graduates will be able to demonstrate the skills necessary for teaching at the undergraduate level.
6. Graduates will be able to demonstrate an ability to generate degree-appropriate job search materials.

Requirements

Students are required to take a minimum of 24 credits in English course work beyond the M.A. Six credits may be taken at the 4000-level. ENGL 5000 Methods of Literary Research (3 cr), ENGL 5010 Teaching Writing (3 cr), and ENGL 5110 Literary Theory (3 cr) are required of all students who have not taken equivalent courses in another program as part of their prior training.

Distributive Requirements

Beyond these courses, Ph.D. candidates who have taken course work in four of the five following fields as master's students need only take 9 of 24 required credits in three of the five fields as part of their doctoral course work. Doctoral students who have not met the threshold master's level criterion must take 12 credits in four of the following five fields:

- Medieval Literature
- Early-Modern Literature (ca. 1500-1800)
- Literature of the Long 19th Century (ca. 1789-1914): British, American, African American, or Transatlantic
- Modern and/or Contemporary Literature: British, Irish, American, African American, Transatlantic, or Postcolonial
- Rhetoric and/or Composition exclusive of ENGL 5010 Teaching Writing (3 cr)

In addition, all Ph.D. students, after their first year, must distribute registrations for 12 credits of ENGL 6990 Dissertation Research over several terms.

Non-Course Requirements

Language Requirement

Before taking their comprehensive exams, all Ph.D. candidates must demonstrate reading proficiency in one language other than English relevant to their research.

Doctoral Competency Exam

Ph.D. candidates take a Doctoral Competency Exam that has written and oral components and is described in the English Department Graduate Handbook.

Public Defense

Completed dissertations are assessed by the student's committee and are formally accepted after a public defense.

Continuation Standards

Students must maintain a cumulative grade point average (GPA) of 3.30 in all graduate/professional courses.

Roadmap

This roadmap is just one example of a semester-by-semester plan of study for this program. There are other plans students can and do take. The plan of study for each particular student is established in consultation with each student's academic advisor; this roadmap does not replace academic advising appointments.

Roadmap notes:

- This Roadmap assumes full-time enrollment unless otherwise noted.
- Courses/Milestones marked with an "!" are critical and must be completed in the semester listed in the Roadmap to ensure a timely graduation.
- Course availability and sequencing are subject to change.

Prior to taking the qualifying examinations, every student in the doctoral program must certify a reading competence in scholarship drawn from one language other than English relevant to his/her literary study.

There are four ways to demonstrate reading competence in a language:

1. By documenting reading competence as an M.A. student.
2. By performing satisfactorily in an accelerated reading course by the Department of Languages, Literatures and Cultures.
3. By successfully completing a 4000-level course in the Department of Languages, Literatures and Cultures.
4. Through a two-hour examination administered by the English department and graded by the Department of Languages, Literatures and Cultures.
