

WORLD CULTURAL STUDIES, MINOR

Cultural studies is inherently an interdisciplinary field in which insights from language, literature, history, politics, economics, philosophy, sociology, anthropology and other scholarly fields come together to inform the ways of thinking in this discipline. The minor in world cultural studies aligns itself with all other programs in the Department of Linguistics, Literatures and Cultures, as well as with programs in other SLU departments, such as English, history, philosophy, political science and international studies, sociology and anthropology, theological studies, and women's and gender studies. It is designed to help students gain a broader understanding of other cultures and of their own culture. This inherently fosters an understanding and appreciation for diverse perspectives and represents a crucial virtue in today's globalized world.
