

DEPARTMENT OF MANAGEMENT

The Department of Management at Saint Louis University prepares students for purposeful careers through rigorous, applied education in entrepreneurship, human resource management and sports business. The curriculum emphasizes practical skill development, analytical thinking and professional adaptability, equipping graduates to contribute meaningfully within a wide range of organizational settings.

As part of SLU's Richard A. Chaifetz School of Business (<https://www.slu.edu/business/>), the department delivers a high-quality management education focused on preparing students to navigate the complexity and demands of a global business environment. Coursework integrates foundational knowledge with applied learning to support both immediate career readiness and long-term professional growth.

Experiential learning is a central component of the student experience. Through internships, applied coursework and participation in the school's Co-op (<https://www.slu.edu/business/current-students/co-op.php>)³ program, students gain structured, real-world experience that strengthens the connection between academic study and professional practice.

The department also sponsors active student organizations, including the SLU Entrepreneurs' Club, the Society for Human Resource Management and the Sports Business Association. These organizations provide opportunities for leadership development, professional networking and engagement beyond the classroom.

The entrepreneurship minor is also available for students studying at Saint Louis University-Madrid (<https://www.slu.edu/madrid/>).
