

NURSING PRACTICE, D.N.P. (POST-MASTER OF SCIENCE)

At Saint Louis University Trudy Busch Valentine School of Nursing, our Doctor of Nursing Practice (D.N.P.) is a practice-focused doctoral degree that educates nurses to become expert clinicians, leaders in health policy, and catalysts for improved health care delivery in an interprofessional environment.

This online program is available to students who possess a master's degree in an advanced practice area, such as a nurse practitioner or clinical nurse specialist. We offer two options within SLU's Master of Science in Nursing-Doctor of Nursing Practice (M.S.N.-D.N.P.) program: advanced nursing practice and nurse executive leader.

Program Highlights

The School of Nursing at SLU is renowned for excellence in nursing education. U.S. News and World Report consistently ranks our graduate program as a top program in their Best Graduate Schools survey.

- Full- and part-time curriculum plans
- Responsive faculty who are nationally recognized for teaching excellence, nursing leadership, scholarly research and student mentorship
- Faculty advisors who are individually assigned to mentor each student throughout the program
- An online library
- An online writing center
- State-of-the-art teaching facilities

Curriculum Overview

The post-master's D.N.P. program requires a total of 30 credits beyond the M.S.N. At the discretion of the Valentine School of Nursing, you may be able to transfer five to six credits of comparable graduate-level coursework.

The curriculum provides flexible sequencing of courses that are offered online in the fall, spring and summer semesters. The program requires one visit to the St. Louis campus at the end of the program to present the D.N.P. project. This project is based on your interest and synthesizes the knowledge you gain throughout the program. It will focus on a practice change initiative in risk reduction, such as a program evaluation, a quality improvement project, an evaluation of a new practice model, a consulting project or a pilot study.

At SLU, we partner with you on preceptors and clinical placement. Besides being paired with a faculty mentor with expertise in each student's desired field of study, the Valentine School of Nursing has a three-tiered process for helping students obtain preceptors for their clinical rotations.

Careers

Doctor of Nursing Practice program graduates are prepared to be nurse clinicians or educators. Graduates influence health policy at institutional, local, state and national levels and formulate strategies to maximize patient health.

Learning Outcomes

1. Knowledge for Nursing Practice: Critiques nursing's distinct and shared disciplinary perspectives and generates new theoretical and empirical insights from the humanities and natural, social, behavioral and nursing sciences to advance clinical judgment and transform nursing practice.
2. Person-centered Care: Innovates nursing care through the relational lens, which fosters caring relationships, mutuality, active participation and individual empowerment in the delivery and communication of compassionate person-centered nursing care through cura personalis.
3. Population Health: Influences diverse stakeholders to transform partnerships, shape health policy and advance equitable population health outcomes related to the social determinants of health.
4. Scholarship for Nursing Discipline: Generates, transforms and leads the integration of best evidence and client values into clinical decision-making.

5. Quality and Safety: Transforms quality of care and redefines strategies to minimize risk of harm to clients and providers through system effectiveness and individual performance.

6. Interprofessional Partnerships: Drives interprofessional engagement with care team members, clients, families, communities and other stakeholders to optimize care, enhance the health care experience and strengthen outcomes.

7. Systems-Based Practice: Innovatively mobilizes resources to provide safe, quality and equitable care to diverse populations within complex health care systems to address social and structural determinants of health.

8. Informatics and Healthcare Technologies: Leverages information processes and technologies to transform and lead the delivery of safe, high quality and efficient health care services.

9. Professionalism: Advances a sustainable professional nursing identity, accountability, perspective, collaborative disposition and ethical principles that reflects nursing's characteristics and values.

10. Personal, Professional, and Leadership Development: Champions activities and self-reflection through Ignatian pedagogy, which fosters personal health, resilience and well-being while supporting the acquisition of nursing expertise, lifelong learning and the leadership continuum.
