Offered in spring.

Attributes: MBA Professional EffectivenessBIZ 6202 - Professional Effectiveness: Power, Politics, Influence, and Negotiation

1 Credit

Power, politics, influence and negotiation is designed to introduce students to the knowledge and skills for success at both the personal and organizational levels. Considering these four phenomena influence day to day decisions and directly affect interrelations of individual actions it becomes imperative to decipher the unwritten codes of conduct, to maneuver within office politics, and effectively influence others. Offered in summer.

Attributes: MBA Professional EffectivenessBIZ 6204 - Having Difficult Conversations

1 Credit

This course, Having Difficult Conversations, is designed to introduce students to the knowledge, skills, and abilities needed to improve communication between themselves and constituents who are resistant to feedback and change. The course will cover a step-by-step process for initiating difficult conversations and adding additional structure at the start of the feedback process for conversations that are particularly confrontational. The course utilizes, in part, the "SWAG & SHAREe" model utilized by Saint Louis University Division of Human Resources regarding having difficult conversations with employees and managers. The importance of developing these skills is critical to addressing issues in a way that helps the other person focus on the content of the feedback, rather than focusing on the emotional and defensive reactions to the feedback. By the conclusion of the class, the student will be equipped to provide comprehensive and effective evaluation of conflict with another employee and turn negative reactions into positive performance.

Attributes: MBA Professional EffectivenessBIZ 6301 - Professional Effectiveness: Culture-Organizational, Country of Origin, and Cultural Intelligence

1 Credit

Culture: Organizational, Country of Origin, and Cultural Intelligence is designed to introduce students to the knowledge and issues that emerge at the micro (individual) and macro (organizational) levels. In this course, students will assess the culture of an organization, individual cultural intelligence, and country of origin, through cases and tools designed for this purpose. These findings will allow students to "see the world through a different set of eyes" and give them a strong base and ability to navigate the socially complexities of culturally-related idiosyncrasies faced in daily and work lives. Offered in spring.

Attributes: MBA Professional EffectivenessBIZ 6302 - Professional Effectiveness: Professional Enrichment

1 Credit

This course provides a content/process model of professional behavior. The content elements are: accountability, altruism, duty, honor, integrity, excellence, and respect for others. The process elements are: professional sensitivity, professional motivation, professional judgment and implementing professional choices. Offered in summer.

BIZ 6303 - Professional Effectiveness: Generational Differences

1 Credit

The focus of this course is sensitizing yourself with other generations by understanding how different generations define respect, get motivated, and feel valued. While a birth year alone does not necessarily dictate generational outlook, this course will also address the real challenge younger managers face motivating older employees, how to overcome common obstacles, effectively address conflict, and how to create an environment that promotes the success of each member – not matter which generation that are in. Offered in fall periodically.

Attributes: MBA Professional EffectivenessBIZ 6304 - Professional Effectiveness: Global Cultural Dexterity

1 Credit (Repeatable for credit)

In this course, you will gain a basic understanding of your personal level of self-awareness within the larger context of intercultural communication effectiveness in doing business abroad. You will become familiar with basic intercultural tools and gain an understanding of cultural dexterity and why it is an essential skill in today's global working environment. The course is highly interactive and discussion based. Case studies will draw from intercultural interactions encountered while working abroad. Offered fall and spring as needed.

Attributes: MBA Professional EffectivenessBIZ 6401 - Professional Effectiveness: Business Model Design with the Lean Canvas

1 Credit

In this course, students will explore how to use a one-page business plan, known as the "Lean Canvas" to design a business model. As they flow through the "Lean Canvas" modeling process, students will learn how to ask questions, generate ideas, and test assumptions around all aspects of launching a business. Offered in spring.

Attributes: MBA Professional EffectivenessBIZ 6402 - Professional Effectiveness: Simulation

1 Credit

This course serves as an introduction to ERP while providing a solid foundation for the common business processes and decisions with the use of analytics. Playing the simulation game will allow the students to become proficient in the use of SAP. They will purchase and sell inventory, order and manufacture goods, handle finances as well as create strategies to be successful in a competitive environment. Students assume the role of business managers and learn to make the necessary decisions to operate their businesses. In addition, students will learn how to apply analytics to the operational business data.

Attributes: MBA Professional EffectivenessBIZ 6403 - Professional Effectiveness: Due Diligence

1 Credit

Due diligence is the process of evaluating a business' key documents presented to current or potential stakeholders, such as business plans, SEC Form C filings, financial statements, business canvases and pitch decks. The evaluation process depends on a critical review of these documents, checking the assumptions, computations, and documentation of the businesspeople, asking questions of the businesspeople and doing additional research to test alternative hypotheses and assess the evaluator's own ideas about the business. This course will help students understand how businesses present themselves to the world, and how to review these presentations to assess the firm's performance.
